Hall, on Monday night, in large numbers, to ratify the nominations of JOHN BELL, OF TENNESSEE,

FOR PRESIDENT, AND COWARD EVERETT, OF MASSACHUSETTS,

FOR VICE PRESIDENT. Wm. II. Fowle, esq., presided, and opened the meeting in a stirring speech. He felt, he said, some of the old enthusiasm creeping over him. (Applause.) He was proud to see such an assemblage of Alexandrians gathered to ratify the nominations of such gameters as the Baltimore Convention had presented. (Applause.) He could never, he said, feel cold in such a cause. (Ap-Plause.)

He introduced to the assembly, the Hon. Horace Maynard, of Tenn., who was received with loud applause. Mr. Maynard said he felt proud to greet Virginians as citizens of a common country, asembled to ratify the nomination of Bell and EVERETT. (Applause.) He noticed the recent assembling of the Charleston Convention, and said that they had assembled in confusion. Lake the gathering at the tower of Babel, the confusion became worse confounded, and, at last, the Convention broke up in wild uproar. (Applause.) The Demorracy claimed to speak the same doctrines averywhere. The recent Convention showed the falsity of their claim. He quoted the entiment of a Democratic Senator, that, however much the Democracy might be divided upon the inception and carrying through of measures, they were always united when it came to the question-"in where hands the government should be com-

The Convention, he continued, could not agree, and a portion drew out. It was the North that remained, and if the South went back, it would go to the North.

He alluded to the persistent agitation of the slavery question, which had been used as a lever to lift demagogues into power. Notwithstanding the amnesties that might be patched up in the Democratic party, the gult between the two factions would still remain unbridged. He had no doubt a platform would be made which would be steady enough when the cars were still, but which could not stand when the cars moved.

Another Convention had met at Chicago whose Southern representatives went in under false pretences-those from Texas, for instance, could not have lived to see the daylight after the night their men were nominated. (Applause.) The candidate of the Republican party was known in his own neighborhood as "a very worthy man," but it was a fault of modern days that the reins of government were too often committed to inexperienced hands. He mentioned a case where a gentleman had been pressed upon him as a proper candidate for the Presidency, whose claim was that he could get excellent certificates of competency from his own neighborhood. (Laughter.) He urged selecting tried statesmen for the Presidency. Such a man, he said, "was your own neigh bor, Washington." (Loud applause.)

as a most respectable body of men. (Applause.) He named the delegates from Virginia-Rives, Goggin, (applause,) Summers. (Cheers.) (A voice-and Scott,) Another name he would pass by, out of respect to the modesty of the gentleman present. (Applause.) That Convention assembled for their country first, their country last, and their country all the time. (Loud cheers.) They saw how platforms had been made the hiding-place for dexterous tricksters, so they went back for a platform to the works of Jefferson and Madison, -" the Constitution, the Union, and the Enforcement of the Laws," (Applause.) The names presented as symbols of these principles, were too well known to require eulogy before this assemblage. (Applause.) But it was said they could not be elected. The way to elect

them was to vote for them. (Applause.)

He then, with some humorous remarks, introduced to the assemblage Mr. Vance, of "Bankum." (Loud applause.)

Hon. Z. B. Vance, of Buncombe county, N. C., said that for the first time in his life he stood before an audience of Virginia Whigs. (Applause.) He esteemed the Whigs of Virginia higher than any other men on earth, except the gallant men of North Carolina who voted for him. (Laughter and applause.) It was an easy thing to be a Democrat in Virginia, especially to young men, (applause;) for unless a young man was a Democrat, he must bid farewell to ambition. Seventy thousand people had had no representative in Congress, until the gallant Boteler (loud and long applause) won his victory, and became the representative of the whole of Virginia. (Applause.) But would the Whigs of Virginia give it up, and lick the hand that smote them. (Cries of "no, no, never.") That's my sentiment. of scripture, and applied them to Democracy is a manner which excited much merriment. wanted to save the Democratic party, were ike a Yankee, who, when a boat was overheaded man!" When the red-headed man was saved, every man supposed that the red headed man was brother to him who had ed out that "the darned fellow owed him $2.50," (Laughter.) He illustrated the position of the Democratic party at Charleston, by the celebrated "Fish Eating Mathine," which called forth loud and long at 10 o'clock. He dwelt at some length on the inconsistencies of the Democratic party. If the Democratic party was the only party that could save the Union, why was it now in danger? Why did they not save it, and up a Democrat from a sleep, and the first word he could utter would be "nigger." Alluding to the Black Republican party, he aid that, although the Democrats had made Washington so corrupt that "the man in the moon had to hold his nose when he passed over it," (laughter,) if Abe Lincoln was elected, and the Angel Gabriel was to alight, the Resurrection would never come 5, for the hungry Republicans would steal his trumpet before he could blow it .-(Laughter.) He continued with many anecdotes, entertaining the audience, exciting who were afraid of the coming storm. much interest, and being listened to with eathless attention. If the Democratic for the dissolution of the Union. Again he adverted to the manner in which the Democtatic party had violated its platforms, and concluded amid loud applause.

THE STORM OF MONDAY NIGHT-RAILROAD Accidents.-The high wind on Monday with familiar illustration the importance of night did some damage in the neighboring counties, tearing up trees, blowing down fences, &c. The down train on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, due at 4 o'clock, He alinded to the Baltimore Convention A. M., yesterday, was detained near Burke's Station, by a tree which was blown across the track, and against which the Engine ran before it could be stopped. No damage was however done, and the obstruction was soon removed. In the lower part of Loudoun County, we learn that the storm was terrific. The bridge across Lycolin Run, on the line of the Alex, Loud, and Hampshire Railroad, about three miles below Leesburg. was blown down, and is a perfect wreck, -n1 the woods in the neighborhood of the bridge bear marks of the violence of the wind, large numbers of trees being uprooted, twisted and broken off. Above Vienna Station, at two points, the passage of the train vesterday was interrupted by trees which but blown across the track. There was very litsoon removed by the hands on the train. A temporary bridge will be once erected across Lycolin Run, and the trains will cross on Friday as usual. In the meantime passengers for Leesburg, Winchester, and other points above Leesburg, will take stages at Farmwell. To give the stages time to connect with the train at Farmwell, the time of departure from Alexandria of the train to-day and to-morrow will be 10 o'clock instead of 8 the regular hour.

whose untiring zeal and indomitable energy, the institution was rescued from a most languishing condition, twelve years ago | has adopted as near tle delay, however, as the obstructions were ly as practicable, the system of instruction pursued at the University of Virginia. And assisted as he is, by a corps of efficient and competent officers, we have no hesitation in saying that it deserves to rank among the first institutions of learning in this or any other country. No young lady can obtain a diploma at this institution without truly meriting it. And while those sciences and studies which give vigor to the intellect, and prepare us to meet the grave and stern duties of life, are of primary consideration, the light and graceful accomplishments are by no means neglected.

The buildings are large, commodious, and well adapted to the purposes for which they are designed. And during the present summer, there will be erected a magnificent building, to accom-

PIANO TUNING

NOTICE.—I have located in Alexandria, and respectfully offer my services to her citizens, TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS, ORGANS, MELODEONS, ACCORDEONS, and all other kinds of INSTRUMENTS. Having had some four or five years experience, I am confident that I can give general satisfaction. I do not boast of having written certificates from persons unknown o most people in this part of the country, nor do publish any such, but I do boast of having such eferences as those hereto attached, who are good ndges of work, whether done well or not, and are reliable beyond a doubt. Alexandrians, encourage one of your own citizens, who has been reared up n your midst, and pronounced equal at least to any one that has ever been here in the above named business All I ask is a fair trial, and I will guarantee to give satisfaction.

CHARLES H. TAYLOR. I tune by the system of equal temperament, the best and only true system in the known world, and the one in general use throughout Europe. SOUTHERN MANUFACTURE.

Reaping and Mowing Machine. FOR 1860.

KIRBY'S AMERICAN HARVESTER.

THE SUPERIORITY OF KIRBY'S AMER. ICAN HARVESTER, over all others, will become more obvious by looking at its several superior points in detail, and then considering that all these separate excellencies are combined in one MACHINE, in the most simple and effective manner. In some of these excellencies it is entirely unequalled, and in none of them is it surpassed. While other MACHINES may equal it in some of its desirable qualities, we can safely say there is not another MACHINE in the world which COMBINES ALL THE EXCELLEN-CIES that are found combined in KIRBY'S

AMERICAN HARVESTER. We would call the attention of Farmers to the following facts: 1. That-This is the most perfe : Combined Mower and Reaper in use; better than any single mower as a mower, and better than any single reaper us a reaper.

2. That—It is the strongest and the lightest; being made entirely of Iron, except pole, seat and platform. The finger-bar is of wrought angle iron, of great strength and lightness. 3 That—It has a Revolving Track-Clearer, which is the only track-clearer that will thoroughly separate the cut from the uncut grass, and without leaving the cut grass in bunches. 4 That-IT REQUIRES ONE-THIRD LESS DRAFT

THAN ANY OTHER MACHINE. 5 That-No PRESSURE IS WADE UPON THE HOR-ES' NECKS, AND NO SIDE DRAFT. 6. That-Its ability to work on rough ground s not equalled by any machine yet produced .-The finger-bar working up and down, indepenother machine could follow it. It will work from 2 to 18 inches high.

or without the reel. S. That-In both mowing and reaping, the positions of the driver and raker are the most convenient and easy, enabling them to do their labor or move from field to field. 10. That—It is easily managed, marvelously simple, well built, compact, not liable to get out of order, made of the best materials, Babbet, metal yoke and extras complete. We would request all those who are in want of REAPER and MOWER, to send for a Circular descriptive of the MACHINE, &c., before making other arrangements. The MACHINES are in all cases warranted to give satisfaction, or no sale.— Manufactured by D. M. OSBORNE & Co., 145,
